

Rights Delay Effort

House Starts Work On Final Stage of Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House started procedure today that will bring the civil rights bill to the point of final action in 10 days.

As expected, a Southern objection to immediate concurrence with the Senate version of the bill, sent it to the Rules Committee where it can be delayed, but not more than 10 days.

A chorus of "I object" came from Southerners after Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, made his unanimous consent request to bring up the bill.

Reps. John Bell Williams, D-Miss.; J. D. Waggoner, D-La.; Horace R. Kornegay, D-N.C.; and Oren Harris, D-Ark. were on their feet.

The Southerner whose objection was officially recorded was Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss.

The next step is for three members of the committee to write to Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., asking for a meeting.

Smith will have three days to act. Then he can set the meeting not more than seven days from that time.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., asked if the bill would be sent to the President by July 4, said "I have every confidence that we will."

The action today began the final stage of the year-long battle to pass a civil rights bill.

The opponents are down to their last round of ammunition, however, and Speaker John W. McCormack has promised President Johnson the bill will be at the White House by July 4.

New Outbreak In Malaysia Jungle War

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Indonesian guerrillas made one of the biggest attacks of the Borneo jungle war Sunday night, only 24 hours after the collapse of the second Malaysian summit conference, a security forces spokesman announced in Sarawak.

Five Gurkhas were killed and five others wounded in the six-hour battle near the frontier about 50 miles west of Kuching, the spokesman said.

The number of guerrilla casualties was not known. The dead and wounded were reported carried back across the frontier as security forces forced the guerrillas to retreat.

The spokesman said the attack on the Gurkha patrol continued for six hours in some of the fiercest fighting of the anti-guerrilla campaign.

Government officials predicted a major stepup in the Indonesian guerrilla campaign following collapse of the peace conference Saturday in Tokyo.

Radio Indonesia voiced a tougher new stand against Malaysia.

The State Security Council in the Malaysian Borneo state of Sarawak scheduled an emergency meeting. The situation on the frontier is grave, Chief Minister Stephen Kalong Ningkan said.

Ningkan said, however, that British and Malaysian security forces could handle the situation if Indonesia tried to send more guerrillas into Sarawak.

Sweden Cool To Visiting Red Leader

SOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev sailed into Sweden on a chilly Baltic wind today. He was told straight away that Swedes are dedicated to their neutrality.

He also was met by newspaper demands for information about a Swedish diplomat captured by the Russians in 1945.

Promptly, the Soviet leader tried to warm up the atmosphere.

He came, he said at dockside, on "a mission of friendship and good neighborliness" that fully appreciated Sweden's neutral policy. He wanted "sincere talks" with government leaders, he said, to strengthen good relations.

"I do not think we will have anything to argue about."

Many Swedes are not keen about Khrushchev's coming here. The government mounted heavy security. There have been threats against his life.

About 5,000 spectators watched Khrushchev's arrival from across the harbor five miles away. At dockside were the official government reception groups, honor guards and the diplomatic corps, minus the U.S., British and French ambassadors—and, so far as news-men could tell, the Red Chinese ambassador.

Premier Tage Erlander, a Socialist, made it plain in his welcoming address that Sweden has no intention of changing its neutral policy, which he said has the objective of peaceful co-existence, Khrushchev's present foreign policy tack.

After the ceremonies, Khrushchev drove off in a 1949 Lincoln limousine, the car which is said to have been fitted with bulletproof armor to take him around Sweden.

Three Youths Arrested In Break-Ins

Three youths arrested Sunday by Sedalia police officers were turned over to the county Sheriff's Department about 11 a.m. Monday.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said the investigation would be completed later in the afternoon.

Police Sgt. Perry Franklin and Patrolman Vic Phelps arrested an 18-year-old and his brother, 17, and police said the youths gave them a statement admitting they broke into the concession stand at the Thunder Bowl Speedway on Route B southwest of Sedalia.

Police said another youth they arrested Sunday had given a statement implicating himself in a May 21 break-in at the Trampoline Center north of Liberty Park.

Police Sgt. Franklin said also that two of the boys implicated themselves in the theft of two tires and wheels valued at about $19 from a junk car at the McCown's Auto Salvage yard on North Grand Avenue.

Another young man, reported to be in the military, was also implicated in the Trampoline Center theft. Officers were checking for his whereabouts.

The forced entry to the Thunderbowl concession stand occurred sometime late last week, officers said, and was not discovered until the management opened the stand in preparation for Saturday night's races.

Police and Sheriff Fairfax said a 48 cup coffee maker, some soda pop, a quantity of popcorn and some cups were taken from the stand. The officers recovered these items.

The Trampoline Center theft included a public address system, a clock, a radio and some soda pop—a total value of $52.

Police had an unexpected visitor Sunday afternoon while they were holding two of the youths in jail for investigation.

The wife of one of the brother came to police headquarters and told officers she would not leave until her husband was released. The woman had her nine-month-old son with her at the time.

Her vow faded, however, when Sheriff Fairfax arrived a short time later and told her she should take the child and return home.

Judge Orders Governor To Show Cause

In Banning Of Demonstrations In St. Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge today ordered the governor of Florida to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for banning night demonstrations in St. Augustine.

U.S. Dist. Judge Bryan Simpson set hearing in his court at Jacksonville at 9:30 a.m. (EST) Friday on the order.

It was issued in response to a petition by Negroes whose demonstrations at nighttime in St. Augustine were banned by Gov. Farris Bryant as a safety measure after Simpson struck down a St. Augustine municipal ban on nighttime demonstrations.

Named with Bryant in the order were Atty. Gen. James W. Kynes, two officials of St. Augustine, St. Johns County Sheriff L.O. Davis and a state highway patrol officer.

The judge acted shortly after a new clash between Negroes and whites at a public beach in St. Augustine, which has been beset by racial troubles in recent weeks.

Nineteen integrationists waded into the surf at the beach and were immediately attacked by a gang of about 20 white men and youths. One Negro girl received a bloody nose and several other demonstrators were struck.

The whites chased the integrationists out of the surf onto the broad white beach and were themselves chased out of the water by highway patrolmen and other officers.

State police arrested about six of the white assailants.

Family Fight Evolves From Wedding

BALTIMORE (AP)—The son of atheist Madalyn Murray has married the teen-aged girl who is in the middle of a bitter court wrangle between her parents and Mrs. Murray.

The wedding of William Murray, 18, and the former Susan Abramovitz, 17, was announced Sunday during a hectic session in Municipal Court.

Mrs. Murray, William, Susan and Mrs. Murray's mother, Bonna Mays, 73, all were in court to answer charges resulting from a brawl with police at Mrs. Murray's Baltimore home Saturday.

Mrs. Murray's lawyer, Leonard Kerpelman, told the court that William and Susan were married last Tuesday at Frederick, Md., 50 miles east of here. Ellis Wachter, clerk of the Frederick County Circuit Court, confirmed Sunday night that he performed the ceremony.

Susan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Abramovitz, in an earlier suit had accused Mrs. Murray and William of inducing Susan to move in with the Murmurs and abandon her Jewish religion.

Mrs. Murray, who brought the suit which resulted in last year's U.S. Supreme Court decision that required religious exercises in public schools is unconstitutional, faces six charges of assaulting policemen.

The Saturday melee developed after police were tipped that Susan had been seen in the Murray home. They had been searching for her since June 2 to serve a contempt-of-court citation.

The judge hearing the criminal court case brought by Susan's parents had placed her temporarily in the custody of an aunt and uncle, ordered her to remain in Maryland, and prohibited her parents and the Murmurs from contacting her until the case was settled. He cited Susan for contempt when she sent him a letter saying she was leaving the state.

Moonlighter Is Common In America

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The two-job man may become as commonplace in America as the two-garage home. America now has four million moonlighters — people who hold more than one job. Seven out of eight of these double duty workers are men, most of them married.

Moonlighting is most common among teachers, farmers, salesmen, postal employees, firemen and policemen. One of every 10 government employees holds down a second full-time job.

In Tahiti, barbershops provide guitars rather than magazines for waiting customers to entertain themselves.

Some U.S. buses now have piped-in music to keep passengers contented. Japanese buses are decorated with fresh flowers.

If we dislike someone, we sometimes say, "He's as phony as a $3 bill." But during the 1840s, the Republic of Texas circulated a valid $3 bill.

In Turkey at one time, a wife had legal grounds for divorce if she could prove her husband neglected or refused to provide her with coffee.

It took all the wars across 175 years to kill a million Americans. The auto accomplished the same feat in 52 years. At the present rate, traffic accidents will take a toll of another million lives in 26 years.

If you had saved your 1908 calendar, you wouldn't need one for 1964. They are the same, day for day.

Can you name the only U.S. president who ever hanged a man? As sheriff of Erie County, N.Y., Grover Cleveland personally supervised the hanging of two criminals, refusing to delegate the task.

Love makes employees happier and more efficient on the job, in the opinion of one Japanese firm. It pays a monthly bonus of $1.50 to couples who announce they are going steady.

Just 100 years ago the inscription "In God We Trust" first appeared on a U.S. coin—the two-cent piece. But Congress didn't adopt the phrase as our national motto until 1955.

Ann Landers Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old, hazel-eyed, honey blonde who just happens to measure 40-22-36. I have plenty of boy friends but the girls at school are cold and unfriendly. This really does hurt me, Ann. Besides I get bored with boys all the time.

I asked a very nice girl in my gym class what is the matter with me. She said, "It's the way you walk."

When I was at summer camp a few years ago we practiced walking with books on our heads and now I am in the habit of walking with my head high and my shoulders pulled way back.

I won a posture award at school last year and I am very proud of it. The girl said I walk as if I am advertising myself. She suggested I slouch a little and hold some books or a purse in front of me.

Do you think this girl is right and that she gave me good advice?—LILA.

Dear Lila: Some of the girls may not like the way you walk, but this is not your real problem. People respond to the way you treat them—this goes for girls as well as boys. If you make a genuine effort to show girls that you are interested in their friendship they will warm up to you.

P. S. Since you have already won the posture award, Doll, you might relax a little and not pull your shoulders back QUITE so much.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married eight years to a man I loved and had faith in. We have three children and want more.

My husband's sister was my closest friend. I feel that she has done me a serious injustice and I'm heartsick over it. If I am wrong please tell me and I'll try to get over it.

Last week I found a lipstick in my husband's pocket. He confessed that he has been seeing another woman for about six months. His sister has been letting him bring this woman to her home during the afternoon.

Although I am shattered I have forgiven my husband and intend to give him every chance to straighten around. Now, what about my sister-in-law? Am I wrong to feel she was no friend to me?—BONNIE BELLE.

Dear Bonnie Belle: By offering your husband the use of her home, your sister-in-law gave an affirmative nod, plus a helping hand, to the whole shoddy business. Tell her how you feel.

Dear Ann: I am a woman almost 60 and I am tired, tired, tired. My two daughters keep me on the brink of total exhaustion.

Last week I had their five children at my home over the week end. The girls and their husband went off to play duplicate bridge. The three-year-old got into the kitchen cabinet and cut himself with a butcher knife. I had to rush him to the hospital for stitches. The 7-year-old fell down the stairs and raised a lump on his head the size of a tomato. The others fought with each other constantly.

At least four nights a week I am asked to sit with either one set of grandchildren or the other.

When my daughters entertain they expect me to bake rolls

Inequality on Positive Side

The big need in American public schools today is to establish equality of education, says Francis Keppel, who is commissioner of education in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

This does not necessarily mean desegregation, nor giving every child the same quality or amount of education. Paradoxically in Keppel's opinion, it means a deliberate inequality — on the positive side.

"It is time," he says, "that we recognize that children who have been deprived the most need the most, that in their schools they need more, not merely as much, as in other schools."

All too often education has been hesitant and immobile in the face of new challenges, Keppel maintains. He proposes six measures which he believes would make education "a creative agent for change" and not merely a "preserver of stability":

Begin working with children as young as 3 and 4 in nursery schools — "a powerful chance to cancel out deprivations that will otherwise affect every aspect of their lives."

Discard convenient assumptions about the disadvantaged child's level of interest; instead, enrich all children's "horizons of experience" in such things as art and music and nature study.

Keep the schools open for perhaps 12 or 14 hours a day and 12 months a year, and offer programs for adults as well as children to make the schools a "full-time resource for the whole community."

Establish a firm and working alliance between the school and home — bring the parents in as partners in the educational enterprise "with an intensity unmatched in history."

Bring the schools into closer alliance with all community resources so that they are no longer isolated and apart from the community they serve.

Create a corps of dedicated teachers who have the "warmth and insight which no legislative act can accomplish."

There is little that is revolutionary about Keppel's recommendations. Some of them, such as parent-teacher co-operation have long been employed in most schools.

What would be revolutionary would be their adoption — with an "unmatched intensity" — in the nation's forgotten schools, whether they are in the slums behind Main Street or hidden in the hills beyond State Route 1.

Mood of the Nation Slow In Change

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was supposed to have been done almost 100 years ago. But the Supreme Court was different then. The mood of the nation and the times were different. And Negroes? They had no power, hardly a voice.

The civil rights bill which Congress is going to pass now is in essence a repetition of what was tried after the Civil War. If it had worked then, the history of America would have been different.

Before the war Southern "black codes" imposed penalties on Negro slaves not only for crimes but as human beings. They couldn't testify against a white man; it was a crime to teach them to read.

The Civil War, and the 13th Amendment of 1865, abolished slavery but new "black codes" began to appear. The freedmen weren't freemen. The codes put restrictions on them that did not apply to white men.

Strong-willed men in the Republican-run Congress, overshadowing both the president and the Supreme Court, rushed through two additional amendments, the 14th and 15th.

The 14th, making Negroes citizens, said no state could deprive them of the privileges and immunities of citizens; and the 15th said no state could deny citizens the right to vote.

Thus Congress sought to free Negroes—there were 4 million slaves at the time of the war, 27 million whites—in their social and political life. Negroes now number about 20 million in a population of 192 million.

To make Negroes' citizenship real Congress backed up the amendments with a series of civil rights acts: the protection of all laws in all states, assurance of voting rights, protection against the Ku Klux Klan, and so on.

One in particular, passed in 1875, said Negroes must have equal treatment in inns, public conveyances on land or water, theaters, and amusement places.

But, despite all this effort by Congress, by then Southern states had begun passing segregation laws. And in the North, Negroes didn't get equal treatment. They were discriminated against everywhere.

It took eight years after that 1875 act for Negroes to take to the Supreme Court five cases of discrimination which, they felt, violated the law. For example, the case of a Northern theater which refused to admit Negroes.

By then the Northern politicians were getting tired of the struggle to get Negroes equal treatment. The Supreme Court reflected this mood.

This was how it interpreted that 1875 act. It was only intended, the court said, to forbid states to pass laws denying Negroes equal treatment; the law didn't apply to discrimination by individual white people.

Southern states piled up segregation laws and in 1896, the Supreme Court blessed such laws by reasoning that was fallacious on the face of it: the court said Negroes could be segregated so long as they got equal treatment with white men.

The treatment was, and became, very unequal. Between 1875 and 1957 Congress passed no more civil rights acts. From 1896 until 1954 that separate-but-equal doctrine of the court remained the law of the land.

In time, a long time, Negroes once again began to seek action by the government to get treatment truly equal. Any appeal for the first half of this century was hopeless. Negroes hoped the court would undo the 1896 ruling.

But it never did until 1954. It knocked out, beginning in the 1930s, various forms of unequal treatment, like back seats on a bus. But until 1954, it never declared the 1896 court wrong by saying the principle of segregation was wrong.

Then it did so in its ruling banning public school segregation. Stimulated by that, Congress passed a civil rights act in 1957, and another in 1960. These were mainly aimed at protecting Negroes' right to vote. Contrary to the 15th Amendment of 1870, Negroes were kept from voting in many areas.

Now Congress is about to pass one more civil rights act, once more to strengthen Negroes' voting protections and, among other things, prohibit discrimination against Negroes in motels, hotels, restaurants and places of amusement if those places affect interstate commerce.

It's a little iffy and fulfillment will take time. But Congress and the court now are trying to do what neither did well in those turbulent years almost a century ago.

Child's Desire to Eat Dirt Should Be Stopped

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.,
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Q — Our 18-month-old son has a craving to eat dirt. He'd rather eat dirt than candy. He is otherwise normal. What can I do to stop him?

A — It is not uncommon for a toddler to eat a great variety of substances that are not food. This is part of his exploration of his universe. The cause is not known, but this tendency does not indicate any lack of an essential nutrient in his diet — dirt would not supply such a lack. All toddlers should be watched and prevented from eating things that are harmful. Flakes of old paint from the walls present a real hazard — lead poisoning — unless the walls have been painted with one of the newer leadless paints.

The best way to stop your son from continuing this or any other potentially dangerous habit is to issue a firm ultimatum: No more dirt! You must teach him early in life that there are some things he just can't do.

Q — My 11-year-old daughter has a high IQ, but she can't seem to do her school work properly. Her father was killed in an auto accident when she was six. Could this have anything to do with her poor school work?

A — Emotional reactions of children to the death of a loved one vary greatly. It is certainly possible that your daughter is still brooding over the death of her father and this could have a bad effect on her school performance. This would be especially true if she has never had a chance to talk out her ideas and fears about death.

Critics Decry Court's 'One Man, One Vote' Rule

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — Many liberal-minded lawyers usually receptive to ground-breaking decisions of the Supreme Court are troubled at its newest sweeping reapportionment ruling.

The capital's legal fraternity is buzzing with puzzled comments over the court's June 15 decision that both houses of the various state legislatures must be apportioned strictly according to population factors.

It was predictable that conservative constitutional experts would disapprove the edict, since many hold with retired Justice Felix Frankfurter that state legislative reapportionment is a thicket the high court should have avoided.

Surprising, however, are the strong indications of concern among those who generally applaud almost any court advance into new fields.

One lawyer in this category says:

"There is a monumental quality of self-assurance about this decision which I find disturbing. It bears little relation to the Constitution or to the history of the United States."

This attorney says the Supreme Court evidently has been "beguiled by the kindergarten formula of 'one man, one vote.'" He sees this approach as "simple-minded" when set against the complexities of a varied, dynamic America in the 1960s.

In his view, good sense requires taking account not only of population but of geographic factors, historic boundaries and economic differences in the 50 states.

A prominent Ivy League professor of constitutional law, again a man generally in support of liberal court trends, joins the many in Washington who think the court went too far in its newest rulings. Says the expert:

"I have never seen why both houses of a legislature must be apportioned according to population alone. I am not satisfied that the 14th Amendment in its equal protection clause requires such absolute equalitarianism."

He believes the requirement of equality may be served well enough if just one house founds its apportionment on population.

In the professor's opinion, there is something to be said for a system which "fractionates" political power among various categories, rather than concentrates it in the hands of those who can muster the most numbers. Remember, this is a court liberal speaking.

What many lawyers find troubling is what they regard as a developing tendency of the Supreme Court to hand down decisions that approach "desired ends" but offer insufficient reasons to be persuasive, either with judges and lawyers or with ordinary citizens.

Effective persuasion is widely seen as a vital ingredient in the high court's important function of settling major controversies which might threaten a crisis in the nation's life.

Obviously, numerous constitutional liberals do not share the worry so many now are expressing over the 1964 reapportionment ruling.

Some of these liberals feel that the stir over the decision is the inevitable accompaniment of a ground-breaking process, that the court is bound to outrage many — sometimes even some of its ardent friends — when it develops new concepts.

Says one of the "undisturbed": "No matter which way the court rules in so important a case, it is subject to criticism. Of course, this ruling is jarring to many people. But time will take care of that."

Use Top, Not Spray Can

DEAR POLLY — I am concerned about the published hint for punching a hole in an aerosol can to be used as a "tassel" for a Venetian blind cord.

These cans are potential bombs and several persons have been killed or maimed by them. I have also read on these cans "Do not puncture or burn in incinerators."

—MRS. C. J. B.

MRS. C. J. B. and others—Do read carefully. We made no mention of punching a hole in such a spray CAN. Our hint read, "Drill a hole in the top of a small white loose top off a spray can." This refers to the lid that is loose and comes off every time the hair spray or whatever is used. No mention was made of puncturing the can and it seems to me a can would make a rather unwieldy "tassel" on the cord of a blind. Empty aerosol cans are VERY, VERY dangerous.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Most mothers will agree there are times when it is absolutely necessary to leave the house to run next door for a cup of sugar, etc., but we are reluctant about leaving the children for even those few minutes. I either call the neighbor or someone who will not mind talking to each child in turn. The kids love this chance to talk and are still talking when I return. It

Some children have weird and unrealistic ideas that need to be aired and clarified. The fact that five years have already elapsed would indicate a deep-seated problem for which your daughter may need the help of a specialist in child psychology.

Q — Our doctor says our 5-year-old son has polyostotic fibrous dysplasia. He says there is no cure for it. What is the cause and what should we do?

A — Your son's condition is due to a developmental defect. It is characterized by bone cysts and is usually limited to one side of the body. Fibrous connective tissue is present in place of bone in the cystic areas. Since the affected bones are fragile and easily broken, special care, usually in the form of braces, is necessary. In some victims overactivity of the parathyroid glands is the cause and in such cases removal of these glands will cure the disease.

DEAR POLLY — A colorful plastic cloth, 54x54 inches, is a good investment. It is easily washed, dries dry and is ready for many uses. Breaking a Tradition.—The 94 seniors at Mary Baldwin College have decided to do without a commencement speaker this year.

Last year there was no commencement address, either. The speaker was delayed in his flight to Staunton. When this year's seniors found they couldn't have former President Eisenhower, who had visited the college in their freshman year, they decided not only to skip the speech but also drop other class day exercises, such as reading the class history and singing the class song.

It all seems admirable to us. Commencement addresses always occur in the middle of a hot Sunday afternoon, and it is too bad that one's last memory of the campus should be one of discomfort. The girls are packed, the fathers are rarin' to go, summer vacations or jobs stretch ahead, the future beckons like a land of dreams, so why gook it up with a superfluous speech?

There may be some carping that this deprives the college of a tradition, but in our view anything done twice in a row becomes a tradition on a college campus, and we expect the seniors of 1965 not to invite the most distinguished speaker they can imagine.

LBJ Faces a Tough Selling Job

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Lyndon Johnson is one of the greatest salesmen ever to occupy the White House. He has sold Congress on civil rights, and the tax bill. He has sold the railroad brotherhoods on calling off a nationwide strike. He has sold business and labor on better cooperation. But today he faces one of the toughest selling jobs of his career — persuading Turkey and Greece to settle their differences over Cyprus.

It was just fifty years ago this week that an obscure incident in an unheard-of Balkan village, Sarajevo, caused every major nation in the world to go to war. The Balkans have been the breeder of wars. And a war over Cyprus could very well spread in 1964, as the assassination of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand spread in 1914, into world war.

Johnson's selling begins as he meets Premier Ismet Inonu of Turkey. It will continue on Wednesday when he meets with Premier George Papandreu of Greece.

In making his sales pitch for peace, Johnson will face a couple of very difficult obstacles.

Obstacle No. 1 will be a deal which John Foster Dulles made with Anthony Eden of Britain over Cyprus in 1953, when Dulles wanted Britain to vote with the United States to ban Red China from the United Nations. In return, Dulles agreed to vote with England in keeping the Cyprus question from coming before the UN.

This infuriated the Greeks and prolonged the Cyprus question, which should have been settled at that time — ten years ago.

Obstacle No. 2 is more deep-rooted, century-old antipathy between the Moslem Turks and Christian peoples of the Balkans. This dates back to the year 1300 when the Turks marched up the Balkan peninsula, imposing Turkish rule on Greece and the Slav races of what are now Yugoslavia and Bulgaria, plus the Latin race of Rumania.

Under Turkish Despotism

Shortly after World War I, I lived for two years in the once Turkish-ruled parts of Greece and Yugoslavia. The hatred of the Turks remained. By that time the Moslems in those areas had reformed and were trying to be good neighbors. But it was difficult for the Christians, once living under the Turkish rule, to forget past persecution.

The island of Cyprus, where the Greeks live alongside a Turkish minority, suffers from this hatred hangover.

However, President Johnson will have one factor going for him in making his sales pitch — namely that Premier Inonu is a broad-gauged elder statesman who has gone on record against Greek persecution. It was the Turkish revolutionary regime which Inonu now heads, which charged the Menderes government with inciting the famous riots against the Greeks in Istanbul.

Premier Inonu is against this type of persecution. However, he is pushing he age of 80, and will not be around indefinitely. Meanwhile his country has the worst record for murdering Armenians, Christians, and Jews of any nation in Asia or Europe.

It was only about 60 years ago that France and England had to stop Turkey after 80,000 Armenians were murdered. And it was in 1915 that the Turks again slaughtered uncounted numbers of Armenian men, women, and children, and drove the balance out on the desert to die.

Cyprus Riots of 1955

Some people may say this is ancient history. But in 1955 I reported, in considerable detail, how the Turkish government, then under Menderes, had distributed crowbars from government trucks to rioters in Istanbul, to break into Greek, Armenian, and Jewish shops, throw merchandise into the streets, desecrate Greek churches, until 4,000 Greek stores, 2,000 Jewish homes, 71 Greek churches and 70 Greek schools were ransacked or partially destroyed.

In one Greek grocery store, every can of meat had been carefully pierced with an ice pick and left to spoil. Beside it, a Turkish shop was left completely untouched.

The worst atrocities were perpetrated against the churches, some of them dating back to only a thousand years after Christ. In some churches every tombstone had been uprooted and smashed. Pictures of saints were torn down, crosses knocked on the ground, priests insulted, the pastor of The Church of Zoodochos Pighi, ill and unable to move, was burned alive, while at The Church of Yenimahalle, a priest was stripped, placed nude on top of a truck, and driven through jeering crowds.

Yet the Turkish government, warned in advance that trouble was brewing, not only did nothing to stop the trouble, but sent Turkish telegraph company trucks, owned by the government, to distribute crowbars.

All of this started over Cyprus, with the chief rioters led by the "Cyprus Turkish Association."

To his credit, it should be repeated that Premier Inonu, when he attained office, tried the guilty officials. But all this illustrates the deep-rooted animosity of Greeks against Turks, and the obstacles President Johnson faces in his sales pitch for peace.

Garden Odds and Ends

Our early spring garden crops are mostly history now. In most sections radishes, lettuce, spinach and other greens provided a bountiful harvest.

We are now into the harvest season of our long-season spring-planted vegetables such as cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli and peas. Early planted beans are nearing harvest.

In a few weeks, summer vegetables will take over the garden. Tomatoes are sizing nicely now; cucumbers and other vine crops are beginning to vine and in some instances bloom and set early fruit.

Now, for those early spring vegetables that have gone to seed or have become inedible. Let's get them out of the garden. If they are not diseased, pull them up and put them in the compost pile. If they are diseased, pull them up, allow to dry and then burn.

On those vegetables nearing harvest, use care in applying insecticides and fungicides. Read the label carefully. It will tell you the time limit between the last application and harvest or use of the crop.

The following insects may be of importance in the next few weeks: On beans watch for bean leaf beetles that eat holes in the leaves, Mexican bean beetles that eat all but the veins, thus leaving a lace-like effect, and the eleven-spotted cucumber beetle.

On cucumber, cantaloupe, squash and watermelon, look for both the striped and eleven-spotted cucumber beetles. Remember, these beetles can carry the bacterial wilt organism and transmit it to the cucumber and cantaloupe. So keep them under control.

Continue your weekly fungicidal sprays on tomatoes and vine crops for the prevention of foliage diseases. Use zineb, maneb or captan — follow direction on the label.

Are you pruning, staking and tying tomatoes this year? If so, continue your pruning until the tomato plant reaches the top of the stake. Then do one of two things. Either pinch out the tip of the plant or discontinue pruning and let the plant and suckers grow.

If you want larger tomatoes on the first 5 to 7 hands of fruit, and do not particularly care to crop the plants until frost, then pinch out the tips when the plant reaches the top of the stake. This will terminate any further growth and put all the food into the tomatoes already set.

If you want to produce tomatoes until frost, when the vine gets to the top of the stake just let it go. The suckers and main branch that subsequently form will fall over and continue to bloom and set tomatoes. Some shading of earlier set tomatoes may prove helpful under this method. Remember, though, if you want size and quality on these late set tomatoes you will have to add additional nitrogen fertilizer and use additional amounts of water.

And finally, keep weeds under control. We are approaching that time of the season when we tend to get a little lax in our care of gardens. Weeds don't become lax however. If anything, they grow more during the warm summer months, particularly with all the rain we have had.

So keep weeds under control. This is a relatively simple task if done regularly to get the weeds when they are small. Remember, too, weeds compete with your vegetables for moisture and nutrients. If allowed to get too tall, they will also exclude light.

Chiggers

Have the chiggers found you yet? They sure have me! The best way to prevent more of this discomfort is by spraying lawns and other grassy areas.

One gallon of mixed spray should cover approximately 1,000 square feet. Spray until the grass is wet but it is not necessary to soak the soil surface. Use any one of the following insecticides per each gallon of water:

Six tablespoons 45 per cent chlordane emulsifiable concentrate.

Five tablespoons 25 per cent Diazinon emulsifiable concentrate.

Five tablespoons 18.6 per cent dieldrin emulsifiable concentrate.

Four tablespoons 60-65 per cent toxaphene emulsifiable concentrate.

Keep small children and pets, especially cats, off treated lawns for two to three days, or until the lawn has been sprinkled and the grass has completely dried.

Brucellosis Re-Certification
We received a reminder from Dr. Clem Darrow, area federal veterinarian, that Pettis County is now due for brucellosis re-certification testing.

They will be selecting 20 per cent of the beef herds in the county and all herds that had brucellosis infection or reactors on the last re-certification test or since then.

Also any new herd that has been assembled since the last certification test will probably be required to test.

Dr. L. A. Rosner, state veterinarian, and Dr. L. F. Van Gorder, federal veterinarian in charge, sent letters to cattle owners involved in this program.

This is a reminder to you, if you received one of these information sheets, to be prompt in sending the information sheets back.

Pasturing Sudan Grass and Sorghum-Sudan Hybrids
A big acreage of sudan grass and particularly sorghum-sudan hybrids are seeded this year, according to reports from farmers and seed dealers.

So many of you will be pasturing these crops this summer, and should obtain a lot of valuable pasture at a time when other pastures are usually short. But at the same time, you will want to take precautions to avoid, insofar as possible, any occurrences of prussic acid poisoning.

While the sorghum-sudan hybrids generally are somewhat higher in prussic acid potential than sudan, even the use of certified seed of sudan grass varieties with low prussic acid content is no absolute guarantee that poisoning of livestock being pastured will not occur.

The last year that we had widespread losses from prussic acid poisoning in Missouri was 1953, when for some reason seasonal conditions must have been just right for it to occur. A survey of losses on sudan that year revealed that in all cases the poisoning occurred when the animals were first turned into the fields — within a few minutes to an hour or so after being turned in. There were some cases where the cattle were turned in the second time after having been away from the sudan for ten days to two weeks, but removal at night apparently did not cause trouble.

If it can be assumed that the poisoning always happens this way, there are several precautions that can be taken that should remove most risks from pasturing sudan and sudan-sorghum crosses.

Turn one or two trial animals into the field first. These can be your least valuable cattle, and it is much easier and quicker to remove and treat a couple of animals than an entire herd. Supervise the entire herd for the first two hours after turning in, so they can be removed promptly if any show signs of being affected. All animals do not seem to have the same susceptibility. Check with your veterinarian ahead of time and be prepared to give prompt veterinary treatment to affected animals. This is very effective if in time, but must be done quickly. Valuable animals can well justify the cost of having a veterinary standing by while the field is being tested.

An additional precaution especially applicable in the case of sorghum-sudan hybrids is to delay grazing until the growth is at least 18 inches tall. This is because young growth on these hybrids has shown several times greater prussic acid poisoning potential than more mature growth.

So if you will follow these practices of using trial animals, providing close supervision during the first couple of hours, being prepared to remove the animals promptly, having veterinary treatment immediately available, and delaying grazing on sorghum-sudan hybrids until they are at least 18 inches tall, your chances of having trouble will be greatly reduced. There is no doubt that in the past the total value of such summer pastures has far overshadowed losses that have occurred. But this has not always been true on an individual farm, so precautions to avoid losses are extremely important.

Fescue Seed Harvest

How much seed can you expect to harvest from a crop of fescue?

University of Missouri extension field crops specialist Bill Murphy says the long-time average production of tall fescue seed in Missouri is around 200-pounds per acre. However, this includes many fields with relatively low fertility or that have been pastured to some extent in the spring. Good fields of fescue can commonly be expected to yield from 300 to 500 pounds per acre of clean seed. An occasional field will yield 600 to 700 pounds per acre and no doubt a few exceptionally good fields produce even more.

JUNE PASTURE WINNER—Olyn Rugen and his son, Duane, inspect cattle grazing on the 15 acre pasture which earned the June Pasture of the Month designation, a contest sponsored through cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and the University Extension Center. Rugen, who resides six miles south of Sedalia, seeded the pasture in September, 1961, with 15 pounds of bromegrass, eight pounds of alfalfa, five pounds of timothy and a half-pound of ladino. Rock phosphate was applied according to soil test in 1959 and the field was limed in 1961. He applied 400 pounds of 14-15-20 in 1959, 155 pounds of 19-13-13 in the fall of 1962 and 193 pounds of 21-13-13 in February of 1964. Rugen has used rotation grazing on the pasture and at the time of judging 10 cows, five calves and 12 yearlings were utilizing the pasture. The Rugen pasture will be considered again this fall with July, August and September winners for best pasture of the year honors.

First Dairy Banquet By Farm Bureau

A dairy banquet was held last Monday night at Flat Creek Inn sponsored by the Farm Bureau dairy committee.

J. W. Rissler is chairman of the committee and Bill McCune, co-chairman. It is hoped for this to be an annual affair in June each year as a part of June Dairy Month promotions.

Preceding the meal, the invocation was given by Russell McFatrach. The program which followed was presided over by J. W. Rissler. Bill McCune introduced the guests present. Loren Gafke, state manager of the American Dairy Association, was introduced and gave a short talk stressing the research and advertising activities of A.D.A., which is financed by a 2c per 100 deduction on milk sold by those dairymen who cooperate.

Dr. Chas. Beer, agriculture economist of the University of Missouri, spoke on problems of modern day farmers. He emphasized the necessity of farmers keeping up with modern technology and pointed out that that more and more capital was needed to get the job done. He suggested viewing capital as just another "hired hand" which the farmer must hire to help him get the job done profitably. He also stressed the fact that superior management is a must if a farmer succeeds in the future.

Sixty-nine dairymen, wives and guests were present for this first June dairy banquet.

Junior Gardeners Hear Mrs. Barnes

The Sedalia Junior Garden Club met Wednesday, June 17, at the public library, with Mrs. James A. Barnes from Club No. 5, as the guest speaker.

Mrs. Barnes, who was introduced by Mrs. O. J. Smith, made four arrangements consisting of two bottle arrangements, one crescent and one using candles. In explaining the bottle arrangements she showed how to keep the stems in properly so they could pass the judges. The crescent was made of grass and lilies. Mrs. Barnes also makes candles and along with making the triangle arrangement she explained how the candles were made.

A short business meeting was held with Janet Norris presiding in the absence of Kathy Warbritton, president.

Mrs. O. J. Smith is chairman and Mrs. Ida Harriman, co-chairman, of the Junior Garden Club.

Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Two of them were running along each side of the eight-foot ditch at top speed, towing a fifth youngster riding grandly on water skis.

Slim Kentuckian Provides Sweet Sight of Perfection

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Met fans thought they'd seen it all — Marv Throneberry, a 32-inning doubleheader, you name it—until a slim sidewinder from Southgate, Ky., came along and treated the New Breed to the sweetest sight of all—perfection.

And, as Philadelphia's Jim Bunning set down Met after Met in the first flawless pitching performance in modern National League history—a 6-0, no-hit, no-base runner masterpiece in the first game of a Sunday doubleheader—the Shea Stadium faithful were caught up in the wonder of it all.

Ferraris Win Famed Auto Classic

LE MANS, France (AP) — Ferraris won the famed 24-hour Le Mans auto classic Sunday, but the Ford team which made an early challenge was confident today it was gaining on the persistently winning Italians.

Ferrari prototypes finished 1-2-3 with a Ford-powered Cobra in fourth place. The race was marred by the death of three spectators killed by flying debris from a collision in which the drivers escaped injury. An accident in 199 killed 79 spectators.

The winning Ferrari, driven by Jean Guichet of France and Nino Vaccarella of Italy, set a speed record of an average 121.5 miles per hour and a distance record of 2,911 miles. The previous records of 117.84 m.p.h. and 2,828 were set last year by another Ferrari.

The Ford factory challenge dissolved quickly with mechanical ills. Ford's colors passed then to Carroll Shelby of Venice, Calif., builder of the two Cobra works entries with Ford engines and two similar cars entered privately.

One of Shelby's cars, driven by Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., and Bob Bondurant, of Los Angeles, finished fourth over-all and first in the grand touring category.

A Ford driven by Richie Ginther of Granada Hills, Calif., and Masten Gregory of Kansas City took an early lead before forced out by transmission trouble on the 64th lap.

Only about half of the 55 starters finished.

They forgot to root for the all right way and the 32-year-old right-hander, an NL newcomer after nine years with Detroit, didn't let them down. Pinpointing an assortment of curve balls and sliders, he retired each of the 27 batters he faced, a feat last accomplished by Don Larsen of the New York Yankees in a 1956 World Series game.

Hal Lanier Makes Major League Debut

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The union of National League pitchers may never forgive Max Lanier, who cut down enemy hitters for more than 12 years in the major leagues.

Lanier has raised a son, who wins games at the plate instead of on the mound.

Hal Lanier, who won't be 22 years old until July, made his major league debut Thursday with the San Francisco Giants. By Sunday night, four games later against the St. Louis Cardinals, the crewcut second baseman had eight hits in 17 at bats. This included his first big league home run and three doubles, and five runs batted in.

Lanier clubbed four hits in five trips Sunday sparking the Giants to a 7-3 victory over the Cardinals, the team for which his father did most of his pitching.

"I started out as a pitcher in high school," the grinning Lanier said in the locker room. "But, dad wanted me to become an infielder because he felt I'd last longer."

The Giants gave young Lanier a bonus reportedly in excess of $80,000 in 1961 after he switched to shortstop. He moved to second base during his first year in the minor leagues at Quincy, Ill. where he hit .315. He followed with a .312 season at Fresno, Calif., and was .282 at Springfield, Mass. of the Eastern League last year.

He was hitting .327 at Tacoma, Wash., when the Giants called him up.

"I didn't think I would get a chance until the end of the season," he said. "But, I am glad to be up here now. I think I can stay."

If Lanier, 6-2 and 180 pounds, continues his hitting the Giants will have solved their second base problem, which has plagued them for several years.

Three of Lanier's hits Sunday came off loser Curt Simmons, a veteran who pitched against Max Lanier, before he retired in 1952.

"Max was a good hitting pitcher," Simmons said. "but I'd rather pitch to him than his boy."

The elder Lanier, who won more than 100 major league games and two World Series contests, now manages Lexington, N.C. in the Carolina League.

Willie Mays added his 22nd homer Sunday and Orlando Cepeda slammed three doubles as the Giants gained a split in the four game series.

The big blows for the Cardinals were a two run double by Bob Skinner and a solo home run by Lou Brock, his first as a Cardinal and his third of the year.

Washington cooled off the magic of new Kansas City manager Mel McGaha Sunday when the Senators stopped the Athletics twice in Kansas City. The A's had won eight out of nine games under McGaha before Sunday's doubleheader.

Washington shattered the Athletics pitching in the first game and came out with a 13-2 win. Then, rookie pitcher Al Koch hurled the Senators to a 5-2 victory in the night cap. Koch needed ninth inning relief from Ron Kline after Ed Charles homered for the A's.

Until then, Koch had allowed Kansas City only three hits. Don Lock drove in five runs with two home runs in the first game for Washington. Don Zimmer also homered for the Senators.

Both the Cards and A's are idle today.

Charlie Robertson pitched a regular season perfect game for the Chicago White Sox in 1922. Pittsburgh's Harvey Haddix hurled 12 perfect innings against Milwaukee in 1959 but lost the game 1-0 on a 13th inning hit. A National League pitcher hadn't won a perfect game since 1880.

Bunning also became the first to win no-hitters in each league, having blanked Boston in 1958 for the Tigers.

The Mets, not to be denied entirely, found a place in the record book, too. Their three hits in the nightcap, won by the Phils 8-2, tied the low hit total for a doubleheader.

While Bunning was spinning gem for the league-leading Phils, the rest of the league went about its business with surprising, though less spectacular results.

Houston climbed into seventh place and sent Milwaukee reeling to ninth with 5-2 and 5-4 victories over the Braves. Chicago swept a twin bill from Pittsburgh 2-1 and 7-2. Los Angeles split with Cincinnati, winning 4-2 and losing 2-1. San Francisco trimmed St. Louis 7-3 in a single game.

Bunning — and everyone else — credited Phil's second baseman Tony Taylor with the game's fielding gem. Taylor dove to stop Jesse Gonder's fifth inning bid in the hole and threw Gonder out from a kneeling position.

Elsewhere, Houston's Rusty Staub went on a four-hit, two-homer spree against Warren Spahn and two successors in the opener with Milwaukee. Second game homers by winning pitcher Ken Johnson and Joe Gaines helped the Colts sweep the four-game set and hand the Braves their sixth straight setback.

Larry Jackson pitched a three-hitter, retiring the last 22 Pirates in order, and drove in both Chicago runs in the opener. Lew Burdette allowed five hits through seven innings in the second game before yielding to Lindy McDaniel.

Sandy Koufax became the second NL pitcher to win 10 games, checking Cincinnati in the first game with the help of Frank Howard, who drove in two runs with a single and his 15th homer. Vada Pinson doubled and Deron Johnson homered in the first inning of the nightcap for the Reds' margin.

Hal Lanier, son of the former NL pitcher, collected four of San Francisco's 13 hits, including his first major league homer. Willie Mays followed the rookie's shot with his 22nd circuit.

Angels Defeat Cleveland; Yankees Take White Sox

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bo Belinsky's mouth says he wants to go to Hawaii, but his left arm isn't helping buy the ticket.

Belinsky, Los Angeles Angels' southpaw, came within one out of hurling his first shutout in nearly two years Sunday but had to settle for relief help and a 4-1 triumph over Cleveland.

The victory was Belinsky's third straight, giving him a 5-3 record. He reduced his earned run average to 3.12 while scattering six hits and striking out nine.

The appearance was the first for the 27-year-old lefty since he revealed last week that he had asked the Angels' management to return him to Hawaii, where he pitched in the minor leagues for a while last season.

The pressure of being a star in the big leagues was too much, Belinsky contended.

So, Bo decided, he better change his ways before ulcers did more damage than American League batters. Hawaii, he was convinced, was the proper prescription for recovery.

His request, however, was rejected, and Belinsky must content himself with pitching for the Angels until he earns the return trip.

The way he's going now, he may have to wait until the winter.

In other AL action, New York moved into first place by sweeping Chicago 2-0 and 2-1 in 17 innings. Boston downed Baltimore 9-6. Detroit defeated Minnesota 4-2 and Washington took Kansas City 13-2 and 5-2.

Belinsky had a four-hit shutout until the Indians got to him for a walk and two hits with only one out remaining in the game. Bob Dilliba came on and retired the last batter, preserving the Angels' five-game winning streak.

The Yankees continued their amazing mastery over Chicago, extending their record this season to 9-0 with the White Sox. The double victory moved the Yankees eight percentage points ahead of the Orioles.

Home runs by Elston Howard and Mickey Mantle took care of the opener. New York, however, needed an error by shortstop Al Weis with the bases loaded in the 17th to win the nightcap.

Weis fumbled Bill Stafford's grounder, allowing Hector Lopez to score. Lopez had doubled with one out and reached third on walks to Howard and Phil Linz.

Dick Stuart belted four hits and drove in four runs, three on a homer, as the Red Sox helped dump the Orioles from the top. Carl Yastrzemski had three singles and drove in two runs for Boston. John Orsino and Willie Kirkland homered for Baltimore.

Dave Wickersham beat Minnesota for the fourth time without a defeat this season. The Tiger hurler needed help from Ed Rakow in the ninth after Tony Oliva homered and a walk and singles by Bob Allison and Jerry Kindall brought in another run.

George Thomas singled across two runs for the Tigers in the first while Bubba Phillips homered in the seventh.

The Senators cooled off the Athletics, winners of eight of their previous nine games. Don Lock drove in five runs with two homers in the opener and doubled home a run in the second game. Jim King had four hits and two RBI in the first game.

Al Koch held the Athletics to

Women's Amateur Golf Champ

TOPEKA (AP)—A 14-year-old girl who took up golf two and a half years ago in Guam is the new Kansas women's amateur golf champion.

Jackie Evans won the title Saturday at Salina, beating out Miss Joan Ashley of Chanute.

a veteran of the tourney, 3 and 2 in 34 holes.

It was Miss Evans' first try in the tournament. She won the state junior girls' title last year. "Dad taught me just about all I know about golf," Jackie said appropriately on Sunday, which was Father's Day.

Jackie first stepped onto a golf course, a nine-hole, par three layout, in Guam in January, 1962.

"We finally gave her the okay to play the regulation course on Guam that summer," Col. Evans said. "And she won two tournaments including the Guam Air Force Women's Open in June of 1963, just before we transferred to Topeka."

The family had been here only a month when she won the junior girls' state tournament.

She will play in the Topeka women's meet in July, defend her state junior crown at Emporia and compete in the USGA junior girls' tourney at Leavenworth in August. She said Sunday she will probably enter the Women's USGA amateur at Hutchinson Aug. 17-22.

Jackie is a 10th grade student at Washburn Rural High School near the air base. She practices nearly every day at Shawnee Country Club.

The club professional gives her pointers on the game but she doesn't take lessons regularly. All the family—"except my little brother"—play, she said.

Col. Evans didn't get too excited about Jackie's chances in the women's tournament until a recent vacation.

"We went to Cleveland and played the men's tees at Fairlawn Country Club, where the women pros play the Cleveland Open. And she beat me for the first time with an 80," he said. "Then she shot a 72 on my home course in Springfield, Ill., where I had a pretty fair 74. The way she hit that tee ball during those 10 days, I knew she was ready for the state tourney."

The 102-degree weather didn't bother the youngster when she won the tournament Saturday. When it ended she asked permission from dad to attend a dance at Forbes that night. She got it.

Jackie is a native of Texas City, Tex., also her mother's home. Her father is from Springfield, Ill.

Romney Pitches For Scranton And Moderates

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The administrator of the Farmers Home Administration urged employees today to increase their efforts on behalf of the small farmer who resides at the bottom of the economic pile.

"Sixteen million rural Americans live in poverty," Howard Bertsch told Midwestern agency officials here. "By and large, so far as our affluent society is concerned, the poor remain the invisible poor."

"We in the Farmers Home Administration move in a familiar arena when we move on poverty," he continued, adding that "matching our concern for the rural poor is our concern for the survival of the family farm."

"Four per cent of all commercial farms in 1959 accounted for one-third of the marketings of farm products and contained one-fourth of the total land in farms. If this trend continues, who knows what the next decade will bring?" he asked.

The FHA has advanced $2 billion during the last three years to strengthen family farms and rural communities. In the first 10 months on fiscal 1964, $613 million was loaned, almost 100 per cent more than during fiscal 1960.

Agency leaders from Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota and Wisconsin are attending the three-day meeting.

British Open Next Major Golf Tourney

WASHINGTON (AP)—Venturi's vultures have been chased away. Now what about Jack's gremlins?

Will they follow him to Scotland?

Ken Venturi, who won the U.S. Open Golf Championship in suffocating heat and pressure, is the fellow who got rid of his companions.

"I didn't have anything like Arnie's Army following me around the last few years," Venturi said, "but I had a gang that was just as persistent. I called them Venturi's vultures."

Then, after he had convinced himself and everyone else that he would never pay off on his early promise, Venturi plodded to the Open title the hard way—in the lead for the final nine holes, and playing in front of his pursuers.

He finished with 66 and 70 for 278, the second best score ever shot in the Open.

And now, the golf question is: Can Jack Nicklaus, the Ohio Golden Bear, snap out of the slump that has dogged him of late?

Of course, there are many golfers who would love to have Nicklaus' troubles. Big Jack is No. 1 on the money list, has won two tour tournaments this year, and is an automatic co-favorite with Arnold Palmer in any tournament he enters.

"He ought to give us strokes," the pros say.

But Jack is such a super player that he is expected to be a factor in every major championship. He wasn't a factor at the Open, after he bogeyed the last three holes of the first round.

Nicklaus finished way back at 295. The next stop is the British Open at St. Andrews, July 9-12.

It is the only major title Nicklaus has never won. He had it in the bag last year, but he finished bogey-bogey and lost by a stroke.

Cedar Key Is Latest Cinderella

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cedar Key is the latest cinderella horse of the turf.

Just an ordinary $6,500 plater a year ago at Bowie, the 4-year-old gelding won his fifth straight stakes Saturday by taking the $28,850 Bowling Green Handicap at Aqueduct. He now has earned $154,914 in eight starts this year and seems headed for an invitation to the Washington, D.C. International at Laurel in November.

It used to be that Cedar Key would take a long early lead then fade. In the Bowling Green, jockey Manuel Ycaza kept him off the pace while Puyallup sped to a 10-length lead.

This time it was Cedar Key, despite top weight of 130 pounds, who responded readily when Ycaza urged him and swept to a 3 1/2 length victory over Irish Dandy in the stakes record time of 2:41 3/5 for the 1 1/8-mile over the grass course.

Cedar Key may go this Saturday in the Longfellow Handicap at Monmouth Park, but whether he does or not his Bowling Green victory overshadowed Northern Dancer's expected triumph in the 105th running of the $74,075 Queen's Plate at Woodbine in Toronto.

The Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner scored by 7 1/2 lengths over Lancrest in North America's oldest horse race.

Olden Times won the $111,300 Illinois Handicap at Arlington and Native Diver took the $55,200 Inglewood Handicap at Hollywood. In Saturday's other features Sheldrake won the $4,300 Leonard Richards Stakes at Delaware, Latin Walk the $16,800 Regret Handicap at Monmouth and Mighty Mark the Methuen Purse at Suffolk Downs.

No Oldsters Make AL All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Not a single 1963 starter returned to the American League All-Star opening line-up which will face the National League's best on July 7 at Shea Stadium, in New York.

Three New York Yankees, three Minnesota Twins and one each from the Los Angeles Angels and Baltimore Orioles made up the starting team, exclusive of the pitcher, chosen by a vote of 281 league players, coaches and managers.

Second baseman Bobby Richardson, who drew 233 votes, the most of any player, headed the Yankee contingent, which included catcher Elston Howard, 217 votes, and center fielder Mickey Mantle, 205 votes.

Mantle was named to the 1963 starting team but a broken leg kept him from playing. His place was taken by runner-up Albie Pearson of the Angels.

The Minnesota trio included first baseman Bob Allison, 80 votes, left fielder Harmon Killebrew, 129, and right fielder Tony Oliva, 176.

Jim Fregosi, who beat out Baltimore's Luis Aparicio for the shortstop berth, 161 votes to 72, was the Angels' representative. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore won the third base nomination hands down, beating Frank Melzone of Boston, 220 to 21.

Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, is the manager. The White Sox did not even place a runner-up in any position.

Commissioner Ford Frick, whose office conducted the balloting, said the National League starting line-up will be announced Tuesday. The remainder of the squads, including the pitchers, will be announced later.

The American League holds a slim edge, 17 victories to 16 with one game ending in a tie. The National League won last year's game at Cleveland, 5-3.

Platform Group Would Increase The Income Tax

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican Platform Committee plans to consider a proposal to raise income taxes—rather than Social Security taxes—to pay for health care for the aged.

"We have always favored progressive taxes rather than regressive taxes," said Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., chairman of the committee that meets in San Francisco next month.

"An increase in the Social Security tax, as the Democrats have proposed to pay for their medical care program, would weigh heaviest on those least able to pay," he said in an interview.

The Social Security tax is deducted only from the first $4,800 of earnings, so that a laborer earning that much pays as much tax as a millionaire.

Laird said his party has always stood for taxes such as the graduated income tax under which amount of the tax depends on the ability to pay.

Laird said that while New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller favors using Social Security taxes to pay for health care for the aged, the general revenue approach is backed by Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and

Comeback Opportunity

French Liking for Leaner Beef Seen As a Boon Here

"Missouri has a wonderful opportunity to make a big comeback in the beef producing area as a result of a recent visit to the state by two of Europe's largest volumed meat importers," says Olen Monsees, president of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation.

"It is encouraging for us here in Missouri," he continues, "to learn that the kind of cattle we can produce economically here in Missouri — 900 to 1,000 pounds. This certainly goes hand in hand with the kind of pasture program we have here presently — either finished on lespedeza or finished on a real short grain feed just before marketing.

English Is Taught To Cuban Youth

HAVANA (AP)—The teacher's questions boomed out in clear, crisp English:

"Whose classroom is this?"

The answer from the 15 students came back in unison, in English equally clear and crisp:

"It is ours."

English is the only required foreign language in Cuba's school system.

"You shouldn't be surprised that we require the study of your language," the teacher told a U.S. visitor. "It's only logical.

"Why should we allow ideological differences between our government and yours to affect our teaching of a language that is so necessary these days in international dealings and advanced technological study?"

All Cuban students must begin studying English in the seventh grade and continue through the ninth. From the 10th through the 12th grades those who have demonstrated an adequate knowledge of English may switch to French.

Experimentation is being carried out with classes in Russian for the same grades. Students who want to learn Russian also may do so in special language schools where many other languages also are taught.

The experimental classes in Russian are being held at the Education Ministry's sprawling complex of headquarters and school centers called Liberty City.

Situated on the edge of Havana, Liberty City used to be Camp Columbia, the main base of dictator Fulgencio Batista's army garrison.

About 7,000 students attend school there now.

The education they get is, like that throughout Cuba, Socialist-oriented. They are taught that the Soviet Union is the leader of the free, peace-loving world.

Gun Battle With Police Is Fatal

HOISINGTON, Kan. (AP)—A man was shot to death in a battle with police while holding one of his own nine children as a hostage early Sunday.

The man, Carl P. Moeder, 48, of Otis, Kan., threatened to kill his four-year-old son if officers came too close. The boy wasn't hurt.

A warrant had been issued against Moeder, charging he fired a shot at his wife at their home Wednesday.

Police Capt. George Nettingham saw Moeder in Hoisington Saturday night and a chase began. Fourteen other police cars joined in.

Moeder's car caught fire three miles north of town and he ran with the boy, shooting at the officers with a .22 rifle.

Later, during a thunderstorm, highway patrolman Tony Bendel of St. John found Moeder and the boy hiding in high grass.

Bendel said Moeder rolled over into a shooting position, so the trooper shot him. He died 30 minutes later.

5-Point Tourist Program Proposed

SALEM, Mo. (AP)—A five-point program to aid Missouri's $600 million a year tourist industry was proposed Sunday by Lt. Gov. Hilary A. Bush, Democratic candidate for governor. He spoke at an eight-county rally at Montauk State Park.

He suggested:

1—A master plan for development of outdoor recreational facilities.

2—Intensify promotion to attract tourists and sportsmen, both in the United States and through proposed foreign trade center overseas.

3—Upgrade and expand facilities in state parks and state Conservation Commission areas.

4—Provide state aid for communities in developing tourist programs, with view to bolstering local economies.

5—Increase tourist promotion cooperation with Arkansas, Oklahoma and Kansas, perhaps by providing uniform fishing, hunting and camping fees.

Discovery of Antarctica still is disputed, but Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, was first to reach the South Pole.

McGiver No Match For Bad Script

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Any program titled "The Missing Bank of Rupert X. Humpendink" has to be broad comedy, or an attempt at it. Using the same process of deduction, any comedy with John McGiver in the cast is likely to be funny.

Sunday night, unhappily, McGiver's considerable skills were no match for the impossible script that carried the ridiculous title on NBC's "Show of the Week."

McGiver was cast as an irascible, high-living bankrupt with a taste for blondes, quadruple martinis and shady deals.

As the show opened he was being dunned by his most recent ex-wife and trying to remember the name and location of a country bank where, 25 years before on a drunken spree he had opened a $60,000 rainy day account under a name also forgotten.

Somehow he remembered the name of the town and the action then moved to the bank and that well-worn classic character—the shy, quiet bank teller who is quietly dipping into the accounts. The $60,000 account of Rupert X. Humpendink was one of his best resources.

The two collide, with the country bank teller ultimately outwitting the city slicker. A good dependable comedy theme. Unfortunately it was played at a pitch of hysteria and confusion as if sheer noise would make up for the total lack of really good lines.

Ah, well, it has been a very bad year for hour-long comedies in television.

"That Was the Week That Was" on Friday night looked and sounded pretty much the way it has on other Fridays, before its director, Marshall Jamison, resigned in a "policy disagreement" with producer Leland Hayward.

Although Hayward would not be specific about his areas of discontent with the show, he repeated that he "prefers the use of the rapier to the bludgeon"—and it is hard to deny that "TW3" often has been brutally blunt and sarcastic where wit and satire would have been more appropriate.

NBC's "Sunday" recalled, on its 10th anniversary, the Army-McCarthy hearings, with a few well-remembered highlights of the Senate hearings, coupled with short interviews with some of the participants looking back a decade. The program is uniformly an intelligent and interesting feature treatment of the news.

Nerve Graft Puts Feeling In Her Hand

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A three-inch section of nerve grafted into a Los Angeles schoolteacher's right wrist restored feeling to her "spanking hand," she related at the American Medical Association annual convention.

"Unfortunately we're not allowed to spank," Blanche Sheets said with a laugh in answer to reporters' questions.

Mrs. Sheets, who teaches the fifth and sixth grades, is one of the first persons to undergo a successful nerve homograft—a transplant from another person. Hers came from the newly amputated leg of a man.

Mrs. Sheets is a patient of Dr. Leonard Marmor, orthopedic surgeon of the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center.

Dr. Marmor and his associates started experimenting with nerve grafts in dogs in 1960. In November 1962, he successfully grafted borrowed nerve tissue in an 18-year-old boy who lost five inches of the ulnar nerve from a shotgun blast through the forearm. Mrs. Sheets' nerve transplant was made in December of that year.

Dr. Marmor said that nerve grafting has been a complete failure in the past except for a few grafts from one part of the body to the region of the ear or fingers of the same person.

An exhibit at the convention describes seven human homografts completed by the Marmor group and a number of animal experiments.

Previous nerve graft failures resulted from severe inflammatory response to the foreign tissue, Dr. Marmor explains. He overcomes this by having the "spare part" nerve irradiated prior to surgery. The nerve section is obtained quickly from the donor body or member, refrigerated, and air-exposed to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology for irradiation, he said.

Dr. Marmor said the nerve implant acts like a pipe through which the patient's own live nerve can grow again. While sensation has been restored in human patients, motor function—movement control—has not. Dr. Marmor said motor function had been restored in animal experiments and may yet return to some of the seven patients.

Mrs. Sheets injured her hand opening a can of fruit cocktail. It took six months after the operation for feeling to come back to her thumb, index finger, middle finger and part of the ring finger.

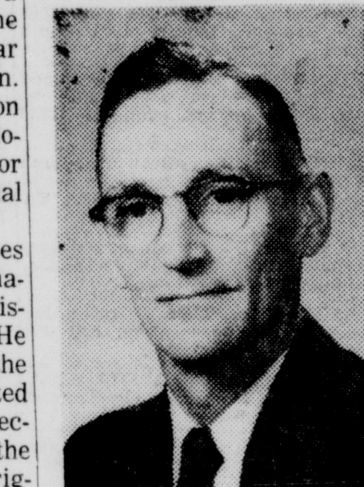

She now has full use of the injured hand, she demonstrated, because other, uninjured nerves control its movement.

BOYS STATE ATTENDEE—Charles E. Elliott, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott of near Green Ridge attended the Missouri Boys State held the past week. He was sponsored by George T. Murphy, Post No. 491 of the American Legion of Green Ridge. Charles completed his junior year at the Green Ridge R-8 High School this year. He is a member of the Antioch Baptist Church, the Green Ridge school band and the Green Ridge FFA Chapter.
